Joseph R. Fleming, the wholesale druggist, and Henry Metzger started for Europe last evening to stay six months or more. Before leaving Mr. Fleming consented to make a statement about the License Court and attempt to explain why he was refused a license. Said he to a reporter:

"I am disgusted and discouraged, and am going to Europe to see if I can't recover my wonted cheerfulness. I have refused all along to be interviewed for fear I might say something that would prejudice my case; but now that it is certain no rehearings will be granted. I wish to make a few statements about my position, by way of comment.

"It makes me feel very badly to have a legitimate business, that cost me $100,000 in advertising to establish, knocked out at a single blow without any reason; but when I see that same trade in the First ward turned over to two GERMANS AND AN ITALIAN men who never spent a dollar in advertising, I can't help but feel that I have not been accorded justice. I was born in the First ward, 60 years ago, and have always borne a good reputation; yet foreigners can come in and reap the benefit of my trade by law. I regard this feature of the transaction as an outrage, and it is the one thing above all others that disgusts me and fills me with a desire to get out of the country for awbile. When foreigners are favored nt the expense of native-born citizens. surely something is wrong with the machinery of government.

"I want to put Judge White night before the community. I have nothing against him, for I believe he did his work conscientiously, though he is inconsistent in some particulars. The man who questions his probity doesn't know him. Judge White is incorruptible; in fact I never saw a man who is as careful of his honor; but he has permitted himself to be imposed upon by politicians and other designing persons. MIGHT HAVE HAD $25,000.

"Let me give you this incident to illus trate the honesty of the Judge: His son John has been my attorney for a long time, and, with at least 20 other reputable men, I put my application for license in his hands. was willing to pay him $1,000 to secure it for me, and I saw certified checks that he was to receive if he could carry the applications to a successful issue. Now, John White is a poor man, and if his list had been granted he was sure of $25,000 in fees addition, no possible objection could be Judge refused me a license so that it could that would let passengers know when they not be said by anyone that he favored his neared the different stations without trying

'In this connection I wish to say that the Judge is reported in some of the interviews as saying that I often called at his home. If this is reported correctly, he is mistaken. We live near each other as neighbors; but I never called on him, for fear he might think I was 'working him.' I should often have been glad to have called on him, but I kept away for this reason.

SOME ODIOUS COMPARISONS.

"It is strange, indeed, that two men who have 'done time' should be granted licenses, while such reputable men as Tom Sheridan, of the Roth House, Tom Delaney and others in the Diamond, were refused. I am told that a well-known city official is a partner of one of these fellows, and this doubtless ex-plains his success. In fact, I could tell some stories I have heard about how licenses were secured that would raise the hair. How much truth there is in these stories I do not know.
"It is current talk that certain people receive percentages from some salcons. As proof of this it is cited to me that since these salcons got licenses a new set of barkeepers, in the interest of the outsiders, were put in. But Judge White, under-stand, has nothing to do with this. He was imposed on, and if the Judge had had any idea what was going on the names of these saloon keepers would have been 'Dennis.' Of course, what I have said latterly is the talk I hear from other people.
"Judge White declared that he would grant no more licenses; but here is Fallon in the First ward, who I understand was not in the business before. He was de-feated for Council. During the canvass saloon keepers who opposed him were warned, and I notice they have lost their licenses. But the defeated Councilman got

A CRIME TO ADVERTISE.

"One of the points made against me by B. C. Christy was that I advertised extensively; but there is a wholesaler on Federal street, Allegheny, who did the same thing, is granted a license. I never knew it was a crime to advertise before, and it is surprising to me that the newspapers would allow such a blow at their business to pass unnoticed. It is these facts and inconsistencies that discourage me. I have always conducted a legitimate business, and complied with the law. I built up a trade at great expense, and it is handed over two Germans and an Italian.
"In conclusion I want to say how I got into the liquor business. Twelve years ago people were making plenty of money, speculating in liquor. It was all the rage, and finally I was induced to invest in a lot. I soon discovered that I could not realize the cost price on it, and I kept it for three

"Still the prices did not improve, and I was forced to ship it to Europe to avoid the Government tax, which was fast consuming Government tax, which was fast consuming any profits there might be in it. At last I concluded to sell it in bottles, and, finding there was money in the plan, I continued it. I imported the finest liquors from Europe and brought from California the best wine. I sold both among the best people of the two cities, and in every instance they got a superior article. I prided nyself on keeping the best, and guaranteed it. When a man bought from me he could bank on what I claimed for the liquor. But along comes Judge White, and verily, my

Three Attempts to Overthrow Judge White's Decisions-Will There be Something Definite To-day!-Pelpters.

Judge White did not appear in court yesterday. He remained all day in his Serickley residence. This was a disappointment to Josiah Cohen and Scott Ferguson, ders, who were on band in the House to see what formal disposition His Honor would make of the applications they filed for rehearings in license cases. If Judge White is not on the bench to-day, Mr. Cohen says they will formally apply to Mr. Cohen says they will formally apply to Judge Magee for action on the applications. Morton Hunter, Esq., yesterday applied to Judge Stowe for a mandamus on County Treasurer Hill to compel him to issue wholesale licenses to a number of his clients. In his petitions Mr. Hunter recites the formal demand made on the Treasurer, with the presentation of the bonds and the tender of the money at any days and the tender of the money at any days and the second of the of the money, etc., and the refusal of Treasurer Hill to comply. He holds that the wholesale act of 1872 is still in force and was not repealed by the Brooks law, and under it the Treasurer should issue the licenses. The dealers for whom the proceedings are brought are J. C. Buffum & Co., Robert Dunwoody, H. L. Berger, William F. Kaiser, George Gotthart, John Z.T. Robitzer, John Stewart, John Thier, L. C. Dittler, John Wilson, Peter Lohnes and T. J. Blackmore. In the case of H. L. Berger a mandamus was also asked for on Clerk of Courts McGunnegle to compel him to register the bonds when tendered Judge Stowe granted a rule on Treasurer Hill and Clerk of Courts McGunnegle for them to show cause why the mandamus should not be granted. May 18 was fixed for hearing the case. Whatever decision is then made will be carried to the Supreme

Messrs. Bobb and Fitzsimmons, attorney for the bottlers, returned from Philadelphia yesterday. They believe they will receive a reversal of Judge White's decisions. The attorneys saw Chief Justice Paxson and Justices Sterrett and Clark in chambers, and asked leave to present their cases at once to the court now in session in Philadel-phia. Judge Paxson was at first inclined not to graft a hearing, because of lack of time, but when the case was presented with the questions to be raised in it, he concluded to allow the case to be presented to the court at once in the form of a paper book, the court agreeing to decide the matter as speedily as possible and render an opinion on June 1 at Harrisburg. The attorneys ask the court to decide that under the various acts creating and regulating the business of bottling beer, porter, ale and domestic wines the court can exercise no discretion in grant-ing or refusing to grant a license further than to discover whether the applicant is a citizen of the United States and of Pennsylvania, and has complied with the require-ments of the act of May 24, 1887, and the

Resolved, That we believe the inspiration of this movement to be the saloon, in its desperation, seeking to intimidate the judiciary into compliance with its demands.

Resolved, That we deplore the fact that there could be found a member of the Legislature of this State willing to lend his name, influence and position to such disgraceful proceedings.

A Rumor That the Grand Property May Pass Into the Mercy Order.

ANOTHER HEIRESS TO BE A NUN. She is the Daughter of Banker Drexel, of

Philadelphia, AND A COUSIN OF ANTONIO AND HILDA

The announcement that another herres had entered the Order of the Sisters of Mercy in this city started a rumor vesterday to the effect that it was probable the Order would make an offer to the Ursuline Sisters for the purchase of their magnificent convent buildings in Oakland, which were to have been offered for sale some time ago. The buildings and grounds, which came within an ace of being put under the hammer, are valued at anywhere from $250,000 up, and it was stated that the Ursuline Sisters were not re-Inctant to sell.

No positive information could be obtained about the matter last evening. A reporter called upon Mother Sebastian, the head of the Mercy Order; but that lady would not

The heiress spoken of is Miss Catherine Drexel, daughter of the late F. A. Drexel, the well-known banker of Philadelphia. She arrived in this city Sunday, not yester day, and was immediately driven to the mother house of the order on Webster avenue. At the convent her wealth is estimated at $2,000,000, not $6,000,000, as has been stated, while the Philadelphia papers say it is $3,600,000. The nuns at the convent will not say anything about the novice, beyond the fact that she is there.

OTHER RELATIVES AS NUNS. "It is, of course, impossible to see Miss Drexel. She is a full cousin of Sisters Antonio and Hilda, of the same order, who were also left fortunes at the death of their father, Dr. Gallagher, of Philadelphia. Sister Antonio is at St. Xavier's and Sister Hilda is now in Lawrenceville. The former is a well-known Catholic writer and poetess. She is a regular contributor to all the leading Catholic magazines and papers, and has written the book, "Flowers by the Way-side," by "Mercedes." These three fortunes, with that of Sister Ines, who is the Mistress of the Novices of the Order, and was a Miss Casey, of Erie, will make the Mercy Order the richest religious community in this country. Miss Drexel is quite young, and very pretty. Since she came into possession of her fortune, she has been contributing $100,-000 annually to the Catholic Indian Missions. This money has been given through Bishop O'Conner, of Omaha, who was the religious counselor of the family. Bishop O'Conner was stationed at St. Paul's Cathe dral here some years ago, and while in this city was the chaplain at the convent on Webster avenue. At the death of his brother, the Rt. Rev. Bishop Michael O'Conner, Father O'Conner removed to Philadelphia, where he was stationed at Holmesburg, to which church the Drexel family belonged. He BECAME WELL ACQUAINTED with them, as their pastor, and, when ele vated to a bishopric, he continued to act as the family advisor. The girls were devout Catholics and attended mass regularly. When their father died he left $1,200,000 to Catholic charities, and the remainder of his fortune went to his three daughters. As ceived their support. Among the many great things they have done was the erection of the Industrial Home for Boys at Eddington, Bucks county.

Some time ago a rumor was circulated by the Eastern papers to the effect that Cathe-rine Drexel was considering the matter of becoming a recluse in a convent. She did not deny this at the time, but, on account of her retiring disposition, she shrank from

of her retiring disposition, she shrank from publicity.

Since then Bishop O'Conner has had a number of taiks with her, and as a result she anuounced to her family, about a week ago, that she had made up her mind to become a novice in the Mercy Order, just as soon as the family sailed for Europe, which was supposed to be about the 7th inst. The family did sail from New York yesterday, but before they had left Philadelphia the younger sister was in Pittshure. She younger sister was in Pittsburg. She

If, at the end of that time she is considered to have the necessary qual ification for the making of a good membe of the order, and is still determined to be come a nun, she will be given the white veil. At the end of two years she will be voted upon. If there is no objection, and she still wants to become a Sister of Mercy, she will be received and given the black veil. After the ceremonies of the profession are over, she will be a regular member of

It was only a few months ago that her youngest sister was married to Mr. E. De Murrell. The wedding was the great event of Philadelphia society circles, and was attended by Bishop O'Conner and a number of the prominent Catholic clergy. Mrs. Murrell, her husband, her sister Lizzie and her uncle, A. J. Drexel, sailed for Europe

Bishop O'Conner was in the city about two weeks ago, and at that time he made the arrangements for Miss Drexel's recep-tion into the Mercy Order. As the money left to Miss Drexel will As the money left to Miss Drexel will have to be turned over to the order, many are the conjectures as to what will be done with it. In addition to the probable purchase of the Ursuline property, part of the money may be used to pay off the debt incurred by the building of the Industrial Home for Working Girls, connected with the convent in this city. An addition is also being built to the house at St. Xavier's. Almost every holy day in the year new povices are taken in this order. novices are taken in this order.

A PALSE FIVE-DOLLAR BILL.

The Secret Service Officers Call Atte Spurious Notes. A bogus five-dollar bill is at present being extensively circulated in and around Pitts burg, and the secret service officers are calling attention to the spurious paper.

The imitation is considered very excellent. The size is the same and the coloring is so deceptive that it requires an expert to detect its faults. There is a great difference, however, in the official stamp, and the false note can be easily distinguished by the fact, that the official stamp is much smaller on the imitated bill than it is on the genuine one.

IMPORTANT CHANGES.

The Pennsylvania Time Table to be Shaken Up. The new Pennsylvania summer time table will go into effect on Sunday. Some important changes are contemplated, but what they are in detail is not yet known.

It is the intention to run one section of the fast line east at 8:10 instead of 9 o'clock. The other section may be held until 9 o'clock as at present. The 3 o'clock express east in the morning will be 20 minutes later. These changes have been decided on, and some other radical ones will be made.

WHO KNOWS ED EVANS? An Old Soldler's Pension Waiting for Him in

This City. The Special Pension Examiners of this city are looking for Ed Evans, who was in the dispensary at Camp Parole, Annapolis, Md., in 1864 and 1865. He can hear something to his advantage in the way of a pen-sion by addressing them and claiming his

A Serious Runnway. A horse ran away at Thirty-first street Bailroad, whose election to that position was mentioned the other day, will arrive here this week and take charge of the road. His salary will be $12,000 a year. Mr. MeDonald is a son of Senator McDonald, of Indiana, and is general agent of the Cairo and Vincennes Railroad.

A horse ran away at Thirty-first street yesterday, and taking to the sidewalk it knocked down Alice Wilson, a little girl, and kicked her in the back; A. J. Reed was badly burt and taken to a physician's office, John Calvert was also injured, and two other men received bad outs about the head. THE MILK TRUST COLLAPSED.

Mr. Reed Steps Out of the Combine The Dealers Are Victorious-It Was Arranged Yesterday. The milk combination between the Producers' Union and the Chartiers Creamery Company was buried yesterday afternoon, and the great lacteal trust has gone to Yesterday was the day on which the mers were to come into town and straighten the account for last month's milk. When the accounts were balanced, milk. When the accounts were balanced, the farmers found that they would get but very little money for their milk.

Said one of them:

"The farmers shipped about 66,000 gallons to the Chartiers Greamery Company, and Mr. Reed got $3,200 for that milk. Of course he will get the profit from the milk, but we will hardly get anything."

"Well, how much do you think you will be paid per gallon?"

"I am not sure of the amount, but I do not think it will be more than 6 cents. The scheme has fallen through. Mr. Reed undertook too much, and he began the wrong way. He thought the thing was easy, but without coffee, and with most, coffee is not complete without cream, and with others without sugar; some do not consider the beverage finished unless complemented by by antagonizing the dealers from the very start. This made them determined to do without him. They got their milk from Ohio, and of course Mr. Reed could not compel them to buy from him, because they could get milk somewhere else.

"At the meeting this afternoon the contract with Mr. Reed was nullified. He told us that he was willing to release us and give us the opportunity of selling and shipping our milk to anybody we please. There was no ill feeling at all. Mr. Reed came to the conclusion that he could not sell all the the milk we could ship him, and he released us from the contract.

"I do not know what we will do now. It is likely that our organization will fall to pieces as a result of this, and a new one will be formed in conjunction with the dealers. However, I believe there is a meeting of the producers to be held next Saturday, and it will then be determined what to do next." THE ANNUAL SESSION

Of Pennsylvania's Medical Men Will

Held Here Next Month. The thirty-seventh annual session of the State Medical Association of Pennsylvania will be held in this city next month. The session will last four days, commencing on June 4. The Bijou Theater has been selected as the place of meeting.

Among the physicians of Pittsburg who will take prominent part in the session are the following named gentlemen: Dr. J. B. Murdock, President of the association; Dr. E. A. Wood, as Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, will make the address of welcome, and on the second day of the seswelcome, and on the second day of the subject:
"Ptomaines as a Factor in a Disease Class."
Other papers will be read by Drs. J. M. Batten, William H. Daly, Samuel Ayres, J. Milton Duff and J. Chriss Lange. On the fourth day of the session, after the general adjournment, a visit will be paid to the Dixmont Insane Asylum.

Can asthma be cured, and does it endanger life? In many cases it is entirely curable. Even in aggravated forms it can be greatly modified, and this latter from persistent paroxysms tends to degenerate into organic heart disease or catarrhal consumption and finally a breaking down of the six call. It is therefore, in case distall from air cells. It is therefore in cases fatal from complications. Asthma may be inherited arise from catarrh, dyspepsia, Bright's disease, etc. This point, however, is of no importance to the patient as compared to its curability. The asthmatic suffers the horrors of being almost choked to death in th even railway ties to get a supply of eyeopener?

The possibilities one shudders to contemplate, and as prevention is better than cure, why not shut down cheese factories, until the sword of Dampeles over the head of the asthmatic, ready at any moment to be precipitated upon its unfortunate victim.

In asthma, dependence on medicines alone ends, as a rule, in disappointment. Here nature's forces, with diet, special exercises, combined with the internal treatment, add tenfold to its effectiveness. In other words, treat the man and the disease. other words, treat the man and the disease. Where can we find a more powerful agent to draw out impurities, reduce fever, inflammations, quiet the nervous system, and, on the other hand, so effective a tonic in hardening the system, breaking up the tendency to colds and equalizing the circulation, when judiciously applied, as water. Does not this lack of system, this bringing together and combining these great collaborations with the interval medical lateral agencies with the internal medica-tion account largely for the want of suc-cess in the treatment of asthma? Dr. S. G. Moore, 34 Arch st., Allegheny, for 14 years has devoted his entire time to nervous and chronic diseases. His specialty is catarrh, bronchitis, consumption, asthma, heart, liver, stomach, kidney and bowel diseases, female diseases, diseases of the blood and nervous system.

ASTHMA AND DYSPEPSIA. DEAR SIR-I wish to state publicly to you how grateful I feel for the wonderful effects of your treatment in my case. I suf-fered over four years with asthma and was also badly affected with dyspepsia. My night's sleep was usually taken in a sitting posture propped up by pillows. These who have asthma will know what that means. I have asthma will know what that means. I took treatment from several general practitioners without effect, and finally got to believe my case incurable. Hearing of your skill as a specialist I consulted you. My progress was gradual, your system of inhaling and outside treatment and systematic manner of handling my case gave me confidence in you, and I may add that I am cured both of the asthma and dyspepsia.

Your friend, REV. J. H. SHIMP.

TROUTVILLE, PA. CHRONIC PHEUMONIA CURED. Dr. S. G. Moore: DEAR SIR-In 1884 I had typhoid pneumonia, and after seven weeks' confinement
I could sit up, but did not regain my strength, and then gradually began to go down again. I was so reduced in weight and strength as to be capable of but little exertion. Knowing that you made a specialty of treating chronic diseases, I determined to consult you. You gave but slight encouragement. I determined to intrust the little life left in me to your care, and I am only too thankful to say that my trust was not misplaced. I began very slowly to improve, and now, after over six months of suffering, I feel that I am entirely cured of that dread disease. Sincerely yours, DANIEL L. HERR, Wildwood, Allegheny county, Pa.

From B. N. Merrill, Uniontown, Pa.1 In December, 1883, while doing mission work in West Virginia I was taken ill; growing worse from day to day, my friends became greatly alarmed and I returned home. We called in an experienced doctor, who said I had congestion of spleen, liver, stomach, brain, and that my left lung was badly congested. To my question, he said my case was so serious and complicated that my case was so serious and complicated that he could give me no hope. Without encouragement or hope of recovery, and being bedfast almost, I had about given up, when my friends suggested that I should send to you. Like a drowning man who snatches at a straw, I determined to make another effort, and, through the blessing of God and the efforts of my skilled physician, I was gradually restored to a good degree of health, and I may add, to the great surprise as well as pleasure of my many friends. I as well as pleasure of my many friends. I would say to those who are suffering from any form of chronic disease that they would do well to call on Dr. S. G. Moore, No. 34 Arch street, Allegueny, Pa.

Jos. Honne & Co,'s Penn Avenue Stores,

S. HAMILTON'S Plane and Organ Trade

At the present time and during the spring season thus far is and certainly has been a contradiction of any complaints of a general dullness in trade, for, while our last year's trade was a large one, this year's is a steady increase upon it, and to account for it is the easiest thing in the world; here it is: We handle the instruments of the day, or, in other words, the instruments that are made to meet the requirements of the present advanced and musically cultured era, requirements and excellences which the instruments of even five years ago no more meet wanced and manacally cultured era, requirements of even five years ago no more meet than do those that were made for our grandmothers. These demands of perfection in tone and durability have been so uniformly supplied by us in the ever progressive Decker Bros.', Knabe & Co. and Fischer pranos and the Estey organ that Hamilton's position as leader in the trade is no mystery at all, and the more so when this ever advancement has been made also as an aggressor on high prices, these high grade instruments being sold right along at prices no higher than usually asked for inferior and antiquated goods.

You should call and see our upright pianos, ranging from $190 to $250, and you will be convinced of our claims. If you have an old instrument of any kind we will take it in exchange for new one, and make easy monthly payments when desired.
